Search Strategies

#1 Keywords

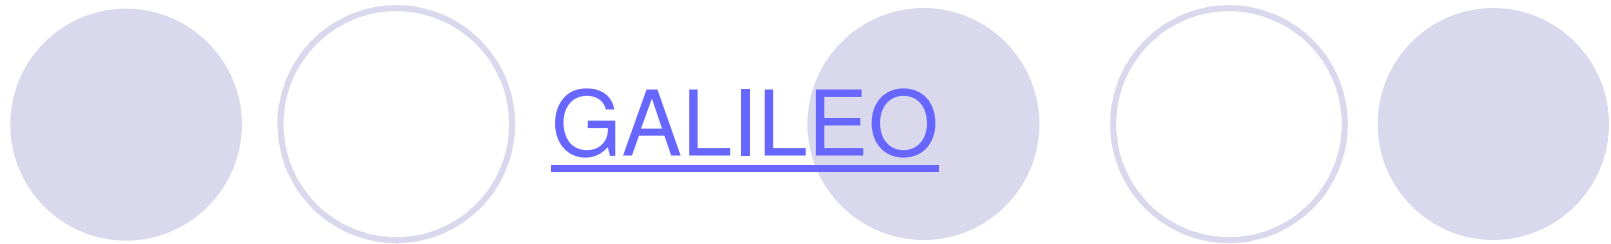

○ Words that are significant, important

Example:

Autism is a brain disorder often diagnosed early in a child's life. It is a biological disorder but a definite cause is still being sought. Behavior modification is a common treatment therapy. Some parents try special diets but there is no conclusive proof gastrointestinal modifications change the underlying disorder.

#2 Synonyms (use when searching the online catalog)

- Find articles from journals and other sources
- Magazines vs. Journals
 - what's the difference? Journal articles are written by subject experts
 - How can I tell the difference?
 - Look for author information that indicates subject expertise
 - articles longer than 4 pages
 - Reference list at the end of the article
- Off-campus Password changes every quarter
 - Contact a STC library for the password
